The Alton Regeneration

The Alton regeneration will deliver contemporary homes for existing and new residents, two new community centres with fantastic facilities, public realm improvements and a better connected estate with improved links and pedestrian and cycle routes. Overall, the regeneration will make the Alton Estate a place where people of all ages want to live, work and spend time.

The Masterplan draws on the existing character of the area, to strengthen, and not replace its existing qualities. It is imagined as two distinct but interlinking neighbourhoods connected by a revitalised Danebury Avenue - the Parkland Quarter and the Urban Quarter.

Local Character

The Alton Estate is set in beautiful surroundings, with access to some of London's best green spaces right on the doorstep. Neighbouring parks in Richmond, Putney and Wimbledon all provide beautiful areas for walking, cycling and spotting local wildlife.

Roehampton itself is a village with local pubs, shops, schools and churches, bringing a community feel to the area. A summer festival on Downshire Field, brings together local residents in a day of activity and events celebrating the area.

The Building

Mckinney House and the Bessborough Road development provides ten new contemporary homes across four floors and is significant in that it indicates the start of the regeneration programme of the overall Alton Estate with the first re-provided Council homes for existing tenants and resident homeowners.

The building sits on a quiet residential street with existing mature trees within the grounds. A local bus service connects the building to neighbouring areas, and is also walkable to Roehampton centre.
